For Further Reflection

*As quickly as possible, without thinking too hard or too long, make a list of five things you'd change about your life if you knew you only had a month to live. Choose at least one to begin changing today, right now.

*If you were certain your life as you know it would end in a few weeks, what would be your biggest regret? Why?

*In what areas of your life are you suffering from the Someday Syndrome? Make a decision today never again to use the phrase "Someday, when things settle down." Realize that today is your someday.

Daily Prayer

Father, I want to know you. Please change my values so that the most important things to me are not things. Instead, help me prioritize relationships above all else. First, my relationship with you. Then, my family and friends. Help me remember this world is not my home and I won't stay here. Help me to keep you in the top spot of my life today so that doing your will matters most.
